TALKS OF HUMANITY IN HIGHER EDUCATION

Dr. Hibben Addresses Alumni of Princeton at Reunion in New Willard.

Dr. John Grier Hibben told how the human element had entered into higher education and Dr. J. Duncan Spaith told how athletes were attaining scholastic honors before the Princeton Alumni Association which dined last night at the New Willard.

President Hibben and Dr. Spaith, who is director of rowing at the university, were the principal speakers. Oliver Metzerott, president of the alumni association, was toastmaster.

"I believe it is possible for a man to participate in athletics even though he comes to the university for intellectual purposes, provided a wholesome and normal relation between studies and athletics is maintained," said Dr.

Of course, if it were necessary to the success of study we would abolish all athletics, but I have generally found that the man who is efficient as an athlete is an honor man in his studies.

Sense of Inquiry. The most hopeful aspect of the present day college student, to Dr. Hibben's mind, is the development of a sense of inquiry.

"No longer do we have the student who learns and recites a lesson," said Dr. Hibben. "There is an inclination in our students to challenge the professor upon his statements, a spirit to argue his theories with those of his protes-

The war in Europe, Dr. Hibben thinks, has done much to intensity in terest in the study of history. This in-terest, he said, has taken the form of a deeper interest in the underlying causes deeper interest in the underlying causes that give directions to events.

"The sympathies of young men have been stirred by this war in Europe as never before," he continued. "They are trying to learn the causes which are behind the conflict and to determine the position the United States should take."

Among the Guests.

Associate Justice Mahlon Pitney, of the United States Supreme Court; Chief Justice J. Harry Covington, of the Dis-trict Supreme Court, and Justice Wal-Justice J. Harry Covington, of the District Supreme Court, and Justice Walter I. McCoy were among those attending the dinner. Others present were: Oliver Metzerott, M. Horn, Edmund Brady, Henry E. Davis, James M. Jehnston, S. A. Williams, W. G. Dunlap, W. J. Flather, James L. Novis, E. A. Bollock, John B. O'Connor, David R. Myers, Charles S. Smith, T. S. Fille Brown, A. B. Kelly, E. S. BERLIN (via The Hague), May 1. Many thousand people in several districts of Poland face starvation today. The government survey shows that in many places a food supply of from two to three weeks only is available. The question of relief is now being considered, but because of the difficulty of purchasing food outside of Germany this is a difficult task.

The American Red Cross and Rocke-feller Foundation, in charge of the re-lief work, are trying by every means in their power to obtain food for these needy people. After several months of effort. Roumania is now permitting the nurchase of corn, beans, and barley in sufficient quantities to feed the Polish non-combatants in the territory held by

DREXEL BIDDLE TO COME TO CAPITA

To Make Series of Addresses to Sunday Schools and Bible Classes May 9.

Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, better known probably as "Tony" Biddle, the society boxer and athlete, is coming to Washington. He isn't coming in the role of a boxer, nor as a society man to demonstrate any of the many talents of his versatile character, but in the role of an advocate of practical religion. Announcement was made today that Mr. Biddle will make a series of addresses before Washington Sunday schools and Bible classes Sunday week. The announcement caused almost as The announcement caused almost as much interest among church workers as if word had come that "Billy" Sunday or some evangelist just as famous were coming to the Capital.

In the evening at 8 o'clock Mr. Bid-dle will address the Bible class students of Vermont Avenue Christian Church. Practical Christianity.

The teaching of practical Christianity promotion of Rible study, advancement of brotherhood among men, and encouragement of unity in the churches, these are the objects of the Drexel Biddle Bible Classes. Very little formality is required for affiliation with the organization. The rules and objects of affiliating classes are not interfered with, and class name, officers, lesson systems, etc., remain intact. If a class systems, etc., remain intact. If a class desires to affiliate this desire is officially communicated to the organization and the names of the class officers are furnished; and when a class is enrolled a certificate of membership is sent, members' buttons are supplied free, and a gold "founder's button" is given to the teacher and #lso to the one who was most instrumental in bringing the class into the organization.

The Drexel Biddle Bible Classes comprise organized classes of women as well as men, and the religious train-ing is supplemented and strengthened by a most attractive appeal through athletic, social, and educational activi-ties, the idea being somewhat similar to that of the Y. M. C. A. Two or three "Bible class homes" are maintained in the East, with parlors, dormi-tories, reading rooms, and opportunities for social games, music, and athletic exercises. At one of the summer home there are thirty-four acres of grounds, with baseball diamonds, tennis courts, croquet grounds, and other facilities to recreation.
